About Ira Gunawan: Ira holds a Bachelor of Music (Major in Piano Performance) from the University of NSW. Apart from teaching the piano, she is interested in early childhood music education, applying Kodaly programs and her own methods while working with very young children.

Program

- Developing a sense of rhythm with percussion instruments and ensemble playing
- Exploring different sounds through active listening and a variety of games
- Learning about music fundamentals through flashcards
- Making music through stimulating activities
- Reading notes on the treble and bass clefs
- Singing

Objective

Our aim is to familiarise your child with the fundamental elements of music, in a group situation, by providing an engaging and motivating experience that will stimulate and encourage their curiosity and innate musicality. It's great training for the mind and encourages very young children to become more creative, spontaneous and independent while learning about music and social interaction.
